MERRILL ADVICE ACCESS

■ WHERE YOU ARE NOW

Congratulations for taking an interest in planning for your retirement future. The chart below displays the likelihood of achieving your annual income goal based on the strategy you implemented through Advice Access.

■ PERSONALMANAGER®

PersonalManager is the discretionary managed account feature of Advice Access that takes into account your personal information and will invest your Plan account into the recommended asset allocation. Approximately every 90 days on the anniversary of your day of birth, and approximately every 90 days thereafter Advice Access will review your account for refreshed information. Upon review, PersonalManager will update your investment recommendation (referred to as "Reallocation"). Simultaneous to the reallocation of your assets Personal Manager will also rebalance your account to adjust for investment gains and losses across the asset classes (referred to as "Rebalancing"). You may discontinue PersonalManager at any time.

Advice Access is an online investment advisory program sponsored by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc. ("MLPF&S" or "Merrill") that uses a probabilistic approach to determine the likelihood that participants in the program may be able to achieve their specified annual retirement income goal and/or to identify a potential wealth outcome that could be realized. The recommendations provided by Advice Access may include a higher level of investment risk than a participant may be personally comfortable with. Participants are strongly advised to consider their personal goals, overall risk tolerance, and retirement horizon before accepting any recommendations made by Advice Access. Participants should carefully review the explanation of the methodology used, including key assumptions and limitations as well as a description of services and related fees, which is provided in the Advice Access disclosure document (ADV Part 2A). It can be obtained through Benefits OnLine or through the Retirement Benefits Contact Center. Merrill offers a broad range of brokerage, investment advisory and other services. There are important differences between brokerage and investment advisory services, including the type of advice and assistance provided, the fees charged, and the rights and obligations of the parties. It is important to understand the differences, particularly when determining which service or services to select.

IMPORTANT: The projections or other information shown in the Advice Access program regarding the likelihood of various investment outcomes are hypothetical in nature, do not reflect actual investment results and are not guarantees of future results. Results may vary with each use and over time.

■ BENEFICIARY INFORMATION

We currently do not have a Beneficiary Designation on file for you for this plan. If you are married, as defined in the Plan Document, upon your death your benefit will automatically be paid to your spouse. To make updates to your beneficiary designations, please visit www.benefits.ml.com.

■ IMPORTANT INFORMATION

If your plan permits catchup contributions and you are age 50 or older in 2026, you can contribute up to an additional $8,000 over the $24,500 regular annual limit set by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) for a total of $32,500. If you are age 60, 61, 62 or 63 in 2026, your plan may allow you to contribute up to an additional $11,250 over the $24,500 regular annual limit set by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) for a total of $35,750. If your wages subject to the Federal Insurance Contributions Act (FICA) in the prior calendar year (2025) exceed the annual threshold as defined by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), catch-up contributions must be Roth contributions.

Some plan administrative expenses may be covered through indirect revenue received from the annual operating expenses of the investments offered through the plan.

New rule for catch-up contributions

Starting in 2026, if your FICA earnings from your current employer were above $150,000 in 2025, and you're eligible to make catch-up contributions, you'll need to make any catch-up contributions on a Roth 401(k) basis. More information is at go.ml.com/Roth401k.

Who will receive your 401(k) assets?

It's a good idea to name a 401(k) beneficiary, and make sure you keep your beneficiary information current. That way, your money will go to who you want. Most beneficiary elections can be made on Benefits OnLine at benefits.ml.com; otherwise, call Merrill at 800.228.4015 to request a beneficiary designation form.

The Importance of Diversifying Your Retirement Savings

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets, or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category, or another particular security, to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk. In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances for risk. Therefore, you should carefully consider the rights described in this notice and how these rights affect the amount of money that you invest in company stock, if applicable through the Plan. It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals.

For more information, please visit the Department of Labor website at <https://www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/laws-and-regulations/laws/pension-protection-act/investing-and-diversification>.

Participants with Deferred Vested Benefits

If you separate from service without taking a distribution of a deferred vested benefit, your plan's administrator is required to report information about this benefit on IRS Form 8955-SSA. This information allows the Social Security Administration to alert those filing for Social Security benefits of any employer-plan benefits available to them. For information about the nature and form of your deferred vested benefit and the name and address of your plan administrator, please see your plan's Summary Plan Description.

For more complete information on the investment options that are mutual funds, including their management fees and other charges and expenses, please consult the prospectuses and other comparable documents. Investors should consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of investment options carefully before investing. This, and additional information about the investment options, can be found in the prospectuses and, if available, the summary prospectuses which can be obtained on Benefits OnLine® at www.benefits.ml.com or by calling Merrill at (800) 228-4015. Investors should read the prospectuses and, if available, the summary prospectuses carefully before investing.

An investment in a money market fund is neither insured nor guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other government agency. Although a money market fund seeks to preserve the value of your investment at $1.00 per share, it is possible to lose money by investing in the fund.

For more information on the investment options that are not mutual funds (non-registered investments), log on to www.benefits.ml.com and refer to the fund description or fact sheet, if available.

Investing involves risk, including the possible loss of principal invested. Investments in foreign securities or sector funds, including technology or real estate stocks, are subject to substantial volatility due to adverse political, economic or other developments and may carry additional risk resulting from lack of industry diversification. Funds that invest in small or mid-capitalization companies experience a greater degree of market volatility than those of large-capitalization stocks and are riskier investments. Bond funds have the same interest rate, inflation, and credit risks associated with the underlying bonds owned by the fund. Generally, the value of bond funds rises when prevailing interest rates fall and falls when interest rates rise. Investing in lower-grade debt securities ("junk" bonds) may be subject to greater market fluctuations and risk of loss of income and principal than securities in higher rated categories. There are ongoing fees and expenses associated with investing. Bear in mind that higher return potential is accompanied by higher risk.

Summary of Notice Regarding Important Tax Information - Your Options For Eligible Rollover Distributions

This notice contains important information you will need if you decide to take a distribution from the Plan. Receipt of this Notice does not mean that you are required to take a distribution from your plan. If you request a distribution, all or a portion of a payment you elect to receive from your defined contribution plan may be eligible to be rolled over to an IRA (including a Roth IRA), or another eligible employer plan.

Your payment may contain Roth and/or non-Roth amounts. You will be notified of the extent to which the amounts you receive are being paid from a designated Roth account or a non-Roth account.

The following is a brief explanation of an important decision you must make about any payment you request from the Plan. Please read carefully. The complete written explanation of these rules is included in your 4th quarter statement. The explanation provided in your 4th quarter statement concerning required minimum distributions (RMD) applies to you if you have attained RMD age. Note that, Roth amounts are not included in RMD calculations for plan participants. RMDs for beneficiaries will continue to include Roth amounts. You can obtain a free copy of the complete explanation of these rules, as well as additional rules that may apply in special circumstances by logging onto Benefits OnLine® at www.benefits.ml.com or by calling the toll free number on your participant statement and initiating a mail request through a Participant Service Representative.

Importantly, for any payment from the Plan that is eligible for rollover, you generally can choose some combination of the following:

- Leave it in the Plan, that is, do not take the payment,
- Roll it over into another employer plan,
- Roll it over into an IRA (or Toth IRA), or
- Take it, don't roll it over, and pay any required taxes.

Whether these options are available to you depends on your circumstances and the terms of the Plan. For example, you may be required to take a payment (and not roll it over) based on your age or if your benefit is below a certain threshold. Moreover, certain types of distributions may not be subject to the 10% additional tax, any may be repaid to the Plan within a three year period.

FOR NON-ROTH ACCOUNTS:

In short, if you don't do a rollover, you will be taxed on a payment from the Plan, and if you are under age 59½, you will also have to pay a 10% additional tax (unless an exception applies). But if you do a tax-free rollover of payment, you won't have to pay tax until you receive payments later.

A payment from the Plan may be eligible for "rollover" treatment. There are two ways you may be able to receive a Plan payment that is eligible for rollover - you can have ALL OR ANY PORTION of your payment either: (1) made directly to an IRA that you establish or to another eligible employer plan that will accept it and hold it for your benefit ("DIRECT ROLLOVER"); or (2) PAID TO YOU.

A rollover is a payment of your Plan benefits to your individual retirement arrangement (IRA) or to another eligible employer plan (e.g., 401(a), 403(b), and government 457(b) plan). This choice will affect the tax you owe.

If you choose a DIRECT ROLLOVER:

- If your distribution includes both pre-tax and after-tax amounts, you must rollover all the pre-tax amounts before you rollover any after-tax amounts.
- If the Plan payment is rolled over to a traditional IRA or another eligible employer plan, your payment won't be taxed in the current year and no income tax will be withheld. The taxable portion of your payment will be taxed later when you take it out of the IRA or the eligible employer plan, (including possible 10% additional tax). Depending on the type of plan, the later distribution may be subject to different tax treatment than it would be if you received a taxable distribution from this Plan.
- If the Plan payment is rolled over to a Roth IRA or to the Plan's designated Roth account, your payment will be taxed in the current year (unless it has basis), but the 10% additional is not triggered. The amount rolled over won't be taxed when you later take it out of the Roth IRA or from the Plan's designated Roth account. Earnings on the amount rolled over will be taxable when you later take them out of the Roth IRA or designated Roth account (including possible 10% additional tax) unless (i) you have had a Roth IRA or designated Roth account for at least five years and (ii) you take them out after you have attained age 59½, died or become disabled or (for Roth IRAs only) as a qualified first-time homebuyer distribution of up to $10,000.
- You choose whether your payment will be directly paid to your IRA or to another eligible employer plan that accepts your rollover (including a SIMPLE IRA after two years of participation in the IRA). Your payment cannot be rolled over to a Coverdell Education Savings Account.

Lord, Abbett & Co. LLC
BANDYOPADHYAY, RAHUL

If you choose to have a Plan payment that is eligible for rollover PAID TO YOU:

- You will receive only 80% of the taxable amount of the payment, because the Plan Administrator is required to withhold 20% (or higher amount you elect) of that amount and send it to the IRS as income tax withholding to be credited against your taxes.
- The taxable amount of your payment will be taxed in the current year unless you roll it over to a traditional IRA or another eligible employer plan. Under limited circumstances, you may be able to use special tax rules that could reduce the tax you owe. If you receive the payment before age 59½, you may have to pay a 10% additional tax if (i) you do not roll it over, or (ii) you roll it over to a Roth IRA and you take the amount rolled over out of the Roth IRA within five years from January 1 of the year of the rollover.
- You can roll over all or part of the payment by paying it to your IRA or to another eligible employer plan that accepts your rollover within 60 days after you receive the payment. In certain cases, this 60-day period may be extended either through a self-certification or request for an IRS private letter ruling, or in the case of certain plan loan offsets. If your distribution includes both pre-tax and after-tax amounts, you must rollover all the pre-tax amounts before you rollover any after-tax amounts. If the payment is rolled over to a traditional IRA or another eligible employer plan, the amount rolled over won't be taxed until you later take it out of the traditional IRA or the eligible employer plan. If the payment is rolled over to a Roth IRA, the amount rolled over won't be taxed when you later take it out of the Roth IRA. Earnings on the amount rolled over will be taxable when you later take them out of the Roth IRA (including possible 10% additional tax) unless (i) you have had a Roth IRA for at least five years and (ii) you take them out after you have attained age 59½, died or become disabled or as a qualified first-time homebuyer distribution of up to $10,000.
- If you want to roll over 100% of the payment to an IRA or another eligible employer plan, you must find other money to replace the amount withheld. For example, if you roll over only the 80% that you received, you will be taxed on the 20% that was withheld and that was not rolled over.

FOR ROTH ACCOUNTS:

In short, after-tax contributions included in a payment from a designated Roth account aren't taxed when distributed, but earnings are taxed unless the distribution is a "qualified distribution," as defined below or the payment is rolled over. If the payment isn't a qualified distribution, an allocated portion of the earnings are taxed when distributed, along with a 10% additional tax on these earnings if you are under age 59½ (unless an exception applies). However, if the payment is rolled over, and the payment isn't a qualified distribution, you won't have to pay taxes currently on the earnings and you won't have to pay taxes later on payments that are qualified distributions. If the payment is a qualified distribution and you do a rollover, you won't be taxed on the amount you roll over and any earnings on the amount you roll over won't be taxed when paid later.

A payment from the Plan may be eligible for "rollover" treatment. There are two ways you may be able to receive a Plan payment that is eligible for rollover - you can have ALL OR ANY PORTION of your payment either: (1) made directly to a Roth IRA that you establish or to a designated Roth account under an employer plan that will accept it and hold it for your benefit ("DIRECT ROLLOVER"); or (2) PAID TO YOU.

If you choose a DIRECT ROLLOVER:

- If you do a direct rollover of only a portion of the amount paid from the Plan and a portion is paid to you at the same time, the portion directly rolled over consists first of earnings.
- Your payment won't be taxed in the current year and no income tax will be withheld. The amount rolled over that represents a return of your contributions to your Roth account won't be taxed when you later take it out of the Roth IRA or designated Roth account. Earnings will be taxable when you later take them out of the Roth IRA or designated Roth account (including possible 10% additional tax) unless (i) you have had a Roth IRA for five years or a designated Roth account for five years, and (ii) you take them out after you have attained age 59½, died or become disabled or (for Roth IRAs only) as a qualified first-time homebuyer distribution of up to $10,000.

- You choose whether your payment will be made directly to your Roth IRA or to a designated Roth account under another eligible employer plan that accepts your rollover (including a Roth SIMPLE IRA after two years of participation in the IRA). Your payment cannot be rolled over to a traditional IRA, traditional SIMPLE IRA, Coverdell Education Savings Account or to another eligible employer plan that does not have designated Roth accounts.

If you choose to have a Plan payment that is eligible for rollover PAID TO YOU:

- The portion of the payment that represents a return of your contributions is not taxable. The portion of the payment that represents a return of earnings on the contributions is taxable unless (i) you have had a designated Roth account under the employer plan for five years, and (ii) you take them out after you have attained age 59½, died or become disabled (called a "qualified distribution").
- You will receive only 80% of the taxable amount of the payment, because the Plan Administrator is required to withhold 20% (or higher amount you elect) of that amount and send it to the IRS as income tax withholding to be credited against your taxes.
- The taxable amount of the payment will be taxed in the current year unless you roll it over to a Roth IRA or to a designated Roth account under another eligible employer plan. If you receive the payment before age 59½, you may have to pay a 10% additional tax on the taxable amount that is not rolled over.
- You can roll over all or part of the payment by paying it to your Roth IRA within 60 days after you receive the payment. In addition, you can do a rollover by making a deposit within 60 days into a designated Roth account in an employer plan if the payment is a nonqualified distribution (i.e., not a qualified distribution) and the rollover does not exceed the amount of the earnings in the payment. You cannot do a 60-day rollover to an employer plan of any part of a qualified distribution. In certain cases, this 60-day period may be extended either through a self-certification or request for an IRS private letter ruling, or in the case of certain plan loan offsets. If you receive a distribution that is a nonqualified distribution and you do not roll over an amount at least equal to the allocable earnings, you will be taxed on the amount of the earnings not rolled over, including the 10% additional tax if you are under the age of 59½ (unless an exception applies). If the payment is rolled over to a Roth IRA or to a designated Roth account under another eligible employer's plan, the amount rolled over won't be taxed in the current year. When you later take out the amount rolled over from your Roth IRA or designated Roth account, the portion of the amount rolled over attributable to your contributions won't be taxed. The earnings will be taxed (including possible 10% additional tax) unless (i) you have had a Roth IRA for five years or a designated Roth account under the employer plan for five years, and (ii) you take them out after you have attained age 59½, died or become disabled or (for Roth IRAs only) as a qualified first-time homebuyer distribution of up to $10,000.
- If you received a nonqualified distribution and you want to roll over 100% of the payment to a Roth IRA, you must find other money to replace the amount withheld. For example, if you roll over only the 80% that you received, you will be taxed on the 20% that was withheld and that was not rolled over to the extent it reflects a taxable distribution of earnings.

Lastly, if you receive a payment from a pension-linked emergency savings account (PLESA), it is treated as a designated Roth account, but some special rules apply (e.g., all payments are treated as qualified distributions).

Your right to waive the 30-Day Notice Period. Generally, neither a direct rollover nor a payment can be made from the plan until at least 30 days after your receipt of this notice. Thus, after receiving this notice, you have at least 30 days to consider whether or not to have your withdrawal directly rolled over. Please note that by taking a distribution from the plan, you may lose certain investment opportunities that may otherwise be available to you. If you do not wish to wait until this 30-day notice period ends before your election is processed, you may waive the notice period by making an affirmative election indicating whether or not you wish to make a direct rollover. Your withdrawal will then be processed in accordance with your election as soon as practicable after it is received by the Plan Administrator.

NOTICE TO DEFER (AND CONSEQUENCES OF FAILING TO DEFER)

You may be eligible to take a distribution of your Plan account now. However, you are not required to take a distribution until a later date, generally when you reach your required beginning date, if your account balance exceeds your plan's elected forceout threshold. Your Employer intends for your Plan account to provide income to you during retirement — if you take a distribution prior to retiring or spend your retirement savings all at once, you may have less income to live on in retirement.

If you defer receiving a distribution, the Plan investment options available to you thereafter (including related fees) generally will be the same as those available to active employees. However, certain Plan features, such as the right to repay or take a loan from the Plan, may not be available if you have terminated employment. Please check the Summary Plan Description for an explanation of any Plan restrictions applicable to terminated participants and any fees charged to the accounts of terminated participants.

If you take a distribution and roll over your account balance to an IRA or another qualified plan (such as a plan maintained by your new employer), the investment options available under the Plan may not be available under the IRA or other qualified plan and the investment fees charged may be greater or less than the fees charged under the Plan. You should compare the investment options and fees available under the Plan with options and fees available in an IRA or other qualified retirement plan. Complete information concerning investments options available and fees currently charged by the Plan are available by reviewing the Participant Fee Disclosure and Summary Plan Description.

Plan distributions will be taxed when paid to you (possibly including a 10% penalty) unless you elect to roll over all or part of your eligible rollover distribution to an IRA or another qualified plan. Please see the Special Tax Notice above for a summary of the tax consequences of receiving a Plan distribution and the rules for deferring taxes by rolling over your distribution. You should consult your personal tax advisor before making an election under the Plan.
